Adv. Shri A. Kundaikar for Complainant/Party I.
Opponent/Party II absent, not represented.

AWARD

(Passed on 14th day of September, 2012)

This is a complaint filed by the complainant u/s 33-A of the Industrial Disputes Act (for short The Act) stating that presently he is working as a Conductor Badge No. 4219 and posted at Vasco Depot. It is stated that a departmental enquiry was held against him with regard to a charge sheet and the same ended by imposing penalty of withholding annual increment. It is stated that the complainant raised a dispute in respect of the said penalty before the Asstt. Labour Commissioner at Vasco. However, pending this dispute, Party II imposed a punishment of suspension without wages for a period of three days w.e.f. 25-11-03 to 27-11-03. It is stated that this order of suspension without wages, was passed without any evidence and only to deprive him the benefit of clause 29(G) of the certified standing orders. It is stated that during a conciliation proceedings of the dispute raised by him, his service conditions have been changed/ /altered with regard to the matter not connected with the dispute, by imposing a penalty which is illegal.

2. In reply to this complaint vide Exb. 3, Party II has stated that the first punishment is with respect to the misconduct and the charge sheet dated 25-2-02 and therefore there is no nexus between the above charge sheet and the charge sheet dated 5-4-94 or with the pending conciliation proceedings. Party II has denied that the impugned order has been passed without any evidence only to deprive the complainant the benefits of clause 29(G) of the certified standing orders. Party II has denied that the enquiry was held in flagrant violation of the principles of natural justice and that the complainant was not given any affordable opportunity to defend himself or that there was no acceptable evidence on record to impose the penalty. Thus Party II has contended that there is no violation of any of the provisions of section 33 of The Act and has prayed to dismiss the complaint with cost.

3. In view of the above averments of the respective parties following issues were framed:

1. Whether the complainant/Party I proves that the complaint is maintainable under sec. 33-A of the I. D. Act, 1947?

2. Whether the complainant/Party I proves that the domestic enquiry held against him in respect of the charge sheet dated 25-2-2002 is not fair and proper?
3. Whether the charges of misconduct levelled against the complainant /Party I are proved to the satisfaction of Tribunal by acceptable evidence?
4. Whether the action of the complainant/ /Party I proves that the order dated 12-11-03 imposing punishment of suspension without wages for a period of 3 days i. e. from 25-11-03 to 27-11-03 is illegal and unjustified.?
5. Whether the complainant/ Party I is entitled to any relief?
6. What Order/Award?

4. Issue No. 1 above was tried as preliminary issue and by order dated 30-9-2010 my Lnd. predecessor answered the same in the affirmative. It may be mentioned here that Issue No. 1 arose because it was specifically pleaded by Party II that there was no nexus with the charge sheet dated 5-4-94 or with the pending conciliation proceedings and therefore by order dated 30-9-2010 my Lnd. predecessor gave the findings that the conciliation proceedings were pending before the Asstt. Labour Commissioner at Vasco when the order of suspension without wages was passed against the Workman and therefore sec 33-A of the Act came into force. My Lnd. predecessor also observed that the change in service conditions is covered by altering the wages on the basis of imposing certain penalty and if the dispute is not covered or connected with the matter under conciliation, necessary approval has to be obtained from the concerned authority and therefore he answered the issue No. 1 in the affirmative.

5. In the course of evidence on the remaining issues the complainant examined himself and he was cross examined by the Lnd. advocate for Party II. It was thereafter neither Party II nor their Advocate remained present before the court. In the course of further proceedings officer of Party II prayed for time to engage new advocate however even thereafter none appeared for Party II. The records also reveal that notice was issued to Party II to place on record the enquiry proceedings but no action was taken by Party II. Thus, the arguments of Lnd. Advocate for Party I were heard.

6. It is submitted by Lnd. Advocate for Party I that Party II has not produced the records of the enquiry proceedings and therefore adverse inference deserves to be drawn against Party II. He invited my attention to the cross examination of the complainant wherein it is suggested by Party II that the enquiry was conducted by Party II on the charge sheet dated 25-2-02; that the complainant had taken part in the said enquiry and that it was conducted properly before issuing the order, by contending that it is the precise case of Party II that the enquiry was conducted in fair and proper manner and hence it was the duty of Party II to have produced on record the enquiry proceedings to substantiate their above case. He therefore stated that the benefit of such situation goes to the complainant to say that the departmental enquiry was not held in fair and proper manner and consequently the punishment imposed is illegal and unjustified. He therefore prayed to set aside the order dated 12-11-03.

7. I have gone through the records of the case and have duly considered the arguments advanced by Lnd Advocate for Party I answer issues No. 2 to 6 as under:

Issue No. 2	Positive.
Issue No. 3	dose not arise.
Issue No. 4	dose not arise.
Issue No. 5	negative.
Issue No. 6	as per order below.

REASONS

8. Issue No. 2: It is stated by the complainant that he was intercepted by the line checking staff and was issued the default notice to which he filed the reply. He has stated that he was then issued a charge sheet and since he controverted the charges, it was imperative on the part of the employer to hold full fledged enquiry. He has stated that he was condemned unheard and was issued the penalty of three days suspension i.e. from 25-11-03 to 27-11-03 in flagrant violation of principles of natural justice as well as in violation of the certified standing orders as applicable to the corporation. In his cross examination he has denied the suggestion that he took part in the so called enquiry; that the enquiry was conducted properly before issuing the order and that it was held after following all the principles of natural justice.

9. Records reveal that Party II nor his representative participated in the further proceedings before this court after the deposition of complainant was recorded. Even despite of issuance of notice to Party II to produce on record the enquiry proceedings, the Party II though served with the notice, did not produce the same. Therefore as rightly submitted by Lnd. Advocate for Party I adverse inference deserves to be drawn against Party II to say that the domestic enquiry held against Party I was not fair and proper. Hence my findings.

10. Issue Nos. 3 and 4: Both these issues are answered together as they basically relate to the evidence recorded in the enquiry proceedings and the consequent imposition of punishment on the complainant. I have already stated supra that the enquiry proceedings have not been produced on record and therefore the question of going into the evidence recorded during the enquiry as also into the consequent punishment imposed on the complainant, does not arise. Hence my findings:

11. Issue No. 5: The present complaint has been filed u/s. 33A of The Act and more particularly for making grievance of non compliance of sec. 33(2) (b) of The Act by the employer. It appears from the complaint. that during the pendency of the conciliation proceeding in respect of the industrial dispute, the employer altered in regard to the matter not connected with the dispute, the conditions of service, by imposing penalty on the complainant This contention in other words means that in terms of sec. 33(2) (b) of The Act, the employer was required to pay wages for one month to the complainant and make an application to the authority before which the proceeding was pending, for the approval of the action taken by him. Since the employer has not complied with the above requirements, the instant complaint. has been filed praying to set aside the order dated 12-11-03 by which penalty of three days suspension was imposed on the complainant and to give him the consequential benefits attached to the post.

12. The relevant extract of sec. 33(2) (b) of The Act, when quoted reads as under:

33(2): During the pendency of any such proceeding in respect of an industrial dispute, the employer may, in accordance with the standing orders applicable to a complainant concerned in such dispute (or, where there are no such standing orders, in accordance with the terms of the contract, whether express or implied between him and the complainant)–

(b) for any misconduct not connected with the dispute, discharge or punish, whether by dismissal or otherwise, that complainant:

Provided that no such complainant shall be discharged to dismissed, unless he was been paid wages for one month and an application has been made by the employer to the authority before which the proceeding is pending for approval of the action taken the employer.

13. Reading of above section and more particularly the proviso to sec.33 (2) (b) of The Act makes it clear that only two kinds of punishment are subject to the conditions of the proviso, namely, discharge or dismissal and any other kind of punishment is not within the proviso. In the case at hand the punishment imposed on the complainant is of suspension without wages for a period of three days i.e. from 25-11-03 to 27-11-03 which, is not. a punishment of either of discharge or dismissal and therefore the case of the complainant does not fall within the proviso to sec. 33(2) (b) of The Act and consequently there was no reason for the employer to seek approval of the action taken by him.

14. The scope of sec. 33(2) (b) has been discussed in the judgment in the case of Strawboard Manufacturing Co. v/s. Gobind 1962 SCR Supl. (3) 618 by observing as under:

..... Before however, we turn to the interpretation of the proviso we may refer to the circumstances in which s. 33(2) came to be enacted. Originally there was no such provision like s. 33(2) in the Act and the only provision to be found therein correspondent to the present section 33(1), the object behind enacting s.33 as it was before the amendment of 1956 was to allow continuance of industrial proceedings pending before any authority prescribed by the Act in a calm and peaceful atmosphere undisturbed by any other industrial dispute. The plain object of the section was to maintain the status quo as far as possible during the pendency of any industrial dispute before a tribunal. But it seems to have been felt that s.33, as it stood before the amendment of 1956, was too stringent for it completely took away the right of the employer to make any alteration in the conditions of service or to make any order of discharge or dismissal without making any distinction as to whether such alteration or such an order of discharge or dismissal was in any manner connected with the dispute pending before an industrial authority. It seems to have been felt therefore that the stringency of the provision should be softened and the employer should be permitted to make changes in conditions of service etc. which were not connected with the dispute pending before an industrial tribunal. For the same reason it was felt that the authority of the employer to dismiss or discharge a complainant should not be completely taken away where the dismissal or discharge was dependent on matters unconnected with the dispute pending before any tribunal. At the same time it seems to have been felt that some safeguards should be provided for a complainant who may be discharged or dismissed during the pendency of a dispute on account of some matter unconnected with the dispute

15. It is also observed in above judgment as under:

..... In this connection our attention was drawn to s. 33-A of the Act which gives a right to the employer to apply for redress in case an employer contravenes the provision of s. 33 and there is no doubt that the proviso to s. 22(2), (b) should be so interpreted as not to whittle down the protection provided by s. 33-A. As we read the proviso, we are of opinion that it contemplates the three things mentioned therein, namely, (i) dismissal or discharge, (ii) payments of wages and (iii) making of, in application for approval, to be simultaneous and to be part of the same transaction, so that the employer when he takes action under s. 33 (2) by dismissing or discharging an employee, should immediately pay him or offer to pay him wages for one month and also make an application to the tribunal for approval at the same time

16. Reference also deserves to be made to the judgement in the case of Lord Krishna Textiles Mills v/s Its Workmen AIR 1961 SC 860 in which it is observed as under:

.....Provided that no such complainant shall be discharged or dismissal, unless he has been paid wages for one month and an application has been made by the employer to the authority before which the proceeding is pending for approval of the action taken by the employer. "It would be noticed that even during the pendency of an industrial dispute the employer's right is now recognised to make an alteration in the conditions of service so long as it does not relate to a matter connected with the pending dispute, and this right can be exercised by him in accordance with the relevant standing orders. In regard to such alternation no application is required to be made and no approval required to be obtained. When an employer, however, wants to dismiss or discharge a complainant for alleged misconduct not connected with the dispute he can do so in accordance with the standing orders but a ban is imposed on the exercise of this power by the proviso. The proviso requires that no such Workmen shall be discharged or dismissed unless two conditions are satisfied; the first is that the employee concerned should have been paid wages for one month, and the second is that an application should have been made by the employer to the appropriate authority for approval of the action taken by the employer. It is plain that whereas in cases falling under s.33(1) no action can be taken by the employer unless he has obtained previously the express permission of the appropriate authority in writing, in cases falling under sub-s. (2) the employer is required to satisfy the specified conditions but he need not necessarily obtain the previous consent in writing before he takes any action. The requirement that he must obtain approval as distinguished from the requirement that he must obtain previous permission indicates that the ban imposed by s. 33(2) is not as rigid or rigorous as that imposed by s. 33(1)

17. Reading of above observations therefore make it clear beyond doubt that proviso to sec. 33(2)(b) does not include in its sweep any other punishment, other than dismissal and discharge and therefore the question of the employer in the instant case seeking approval of its action of imposing punishment of suspension without wages for a period of three days does not arise. Consequently it is not open to the complainant herein to pray for setting aside of the order dated 12-11-03 and to release him the consequential benefits attached to the post. This being the case, the complainant is not entitled to the reliefs claimed. Hence my findings.
